Introduction
Welcome to the International Studies Program at the College of Charleston. The International Studies Program is the international interdisciplinary major at the College of Charleston. It is where all the components of the School of Languages, Cultures and World Affairs come together.

International Studies Program Mission Statement:
The International Studies major focuses on the political economic, socio-historic, and cultural dimensions of changes that have and are taking place around the world. International Studies will help students to develop a global perspective regarding vital trends and issues as they learn to analyze international affairs.

The International Studies major is both an interdisciplinary and multi-disciplinary program. It emphasizes knowledge of regions across disciplines and time, providing students with the skills necessary to become global citizens. Students who complete the major will have acquired a firm grasp of methodologies appropriate to the study of international phenomena, in-depth expertise in a particular region of the world or international theme, competence in a foreign language, and globally relevant experience through study or internship abroad programs.

The major recognizes that a comprehensive focus on international issues, foreign cultures, and societies is beyond the ability of any one discipline to provide. Therefore, the major draws from multiple disciplines to give students a multi-dimensional perspective on global development and issues. In the very near future, virtually all occupations will be international in scope. Global challenges require global solutions and students with knowledge and understanding of world issues and cultures will be in high demand, become the leaders of their generation, and make significant contributions to their local communities.

Currently, Students can Concentrate in one of five areas:

Africa
Asia
Europe
International Comparative Literature
Latin America and the Caribbean
Special Opportunities in International Studies

Internships for Academic Credit

An internship will enable you to achieve one of the primary goals of our curriculum — the ability to apply what has been learned at the College of Charleston. An internship will help reinforce theories and concepts with concrete experiences and apply perspectives of the discipline in a work setting. Internships are experience and applied knowledge blended with course and research work. Additionally, internships can help you in both the job market and with graduate school admission. Internships are available through International Studies and the individual departments contributing to International Studies.

Other Internships

Any International Studies student that would like the opportunity of participating in non-credit internships or volunteer work are encouraged to contact the College of Charleston’s Career Services. Career Services has a large number of internship listings, both national and local. It is possible to have non-credit internships listed on your transcript.

Independent Study and Research

All International Studies students are encouraged to complete a portion of their studies through independent course or research work. The student must identify an area of interest, develop a plan for the project, and find a faculty member willing to supervise the project. All require individual enrollment, the permission of the sponsoring faculty, and the permission of the program or department chair.

Students planning to undertake independent research are encouraged to consult with their faculty supervisor about applying for competitive research grants set aside for undergraduates. There are three grants that may be applied for: Academic Year Research Award (AYRA), Summer Undergraduate Research with Faculty grants (SURF), Major Academic Year Support (MAYS) and Research Presentation Grants (RPG). Please consult the Undergraduate Research webpage for more information.

Departmental Honors

Students who complete at least 12 hours of independent work, for example: an Internship, Tutorial, an Independent Study, or a Bachelor’s Essay and have a minimum GPA of 3.5 in the major and do “exceptionally fine work” are eligible to be considered for Departmental Honors at graduation.

Bachelor’s Essay

Students may do an interdisciplinary Bachelor’s Essay in International Studies or may get credit for one within a discipline that is specifically on an International theme. This is usually a year long project.
Study Abroad Opportunities from LCWA

Semester Study Abroad

Walter Fuentes Fall Semester Program in Chile

This program will offer the opportunity to study one semester in Santiago, Chile, and earn 12-15 hours of credit through the College of Charleston. The rich cultural heritage, the magnificent features of its geography, the dynamic urban setting of Santiago, the well known hospitality of its inhabitants, and the stability and safety of the country, make Chile a natural choice for students looking for a first-hand experience with the people, language, culture and contemporary issues of the Spanish American world. Students will take classes at the Universidad de Santiago de Chile and live with Chilean families, who are carefully selected to provide an enriching cultural and family environment.

Classes will be held at the Universidad de Santiago de Chile, one of Chile’s finest institutions of higher learning, and taught by faculty of the Universidad de Santiago de Chile.

Spring Semester Program in Argentina

This program will offer the opportunity to study one semester in Buenos Aires, Argentina, and earn 12-15 hours of credit through the College of Charleston. Buenos Aires is well known as the “Paris” of Latin America. Known as a dynamic urban cosmopolitan center of culture, business and modern life, Buenos Aires is the perfect setting for students desiring to hone their language skills and at the same time immerse themselves in the business and political culture of South America. Argentina has one of the most diverse geographies in Latin America – from the pampas of Buenos Aires Province, to the high Andes, and the desert of Patagonia. Students will live with Argentine families, who are carefully selected to provide an enriching cultural and family environment.

Classes will be held at the Universidad de Buenos Aires, Argentina’s finest institution of higher learning, and taught by faculty of the Universidad de Buenos Aires.

Fall Semester Program in La Rochelle, France

There are many opportunities for students while studying for the fall semester in La Rochelle, France. One of the program highlights is that students will live with local French families during their semester abroad. Living with families provide students a great opportunity to learn about daily life and culture in France while improving their French language skills. Students must enroll in at least 12 credit hours (4 courses) while in La Rochelle to maintain their full-time status at the College of Charleston. Classes are held at the University of La Rochelle in the CUFLE (Centre Universitaire de Francais Langue Etrangere), or international center, and are taught by French faculty.

Spring Semester in Trujillo, Spain

Offers students the opportunity to study with faculty from CofC and the Universidad de Extremadura. Students will enroll in 12-15 credit hours. The program includes several days of excursions to Andalusia (Córdoba, Granada and Sevilla) and Madrid. Trujillo is located in the Extremadura region of Spain, southwest of Madrid. A thriving center of tourism with a rich historical past, Trujillo is the place of origin of many conquistadors, including Pizarro. Cáceres, a UN designated World Heritage City and the site of the Universidad de Extremadura, lies about a half an hour west of Trujillo and is the birthplace of the conquistador Cortés. Classes are held in the Coria, a 17th century restored convent, from Monday through Thursday, allowing students ample time for excursions and internship work. Students will live with host families in Trujillo.
Affiliate Programs

Through the Center for International Education, the College offers a vast array of Affiliate (non-College of Charleston) Programs. However, only certain Affiliate Programs may be acceptable for meeting the Study Abroad requirement of the International Studies Major. The acceptable Affiliate programs are listed below. Exceptions may be allowed under special circumstances. Student may petition the Program faculty if the program they desire to study on is not one of the approved.

All summer study abroad programs, whether College of Charleston led or affiliate programs, must be at least three weeks in duration to be approved for International Studies majors.

International Studies and your Career

International Studies (INTL) offers an interdisciplinary major with a broad background in international and transnational political, social, economic, cultural, intellectual and environmental affairs, together with a comparative study of politics, economics, history, literature and culture. The goal is to provide students with the necessary tools to understand global processes in their totality and how they are situated and lived in specific regions. The major provides an integrated program of courses that lays the foundation for professional training in a wide variety of areas. Such a foundation can be invaluable in securing a place in competitive graduate or professional schools, which, in turn, prepare students for government service, or for other careers with an international focus, including those in multinational corporations, international finance, non-governmental organizations, and institutions of teaching and research.
