BACKGROUND
This special topics course will meet 14 times during the semester during which we will employ an interdisciplinary approach to unpack contemporary issues of crime, law, and violence in the Americas.

COURSE DESCRIPTION
Presently, rates of violence in Latin America and the Caribbean are the highest in the world. Drug, gun and gang violence extends far beyond the primary actors involved in these activities and creates numerous development issues. Initially, our course study will explore dominant development theories, examine the historical legacy of authoritarianism and establish a foundation to examine the relationship of crime, law, and governance in the context of emergent issues in contemporary Latin America. In brief, this course will explore underlying historical political, economic and social issues related to contemporary conditions and structures of crime and violence in the Americas.

LEARNING OUTCOMES & COURSE OBJECTIVES
1. Identify what is meant by “violence” while understanding the complexities associated with reaching a commonly accepted definition of the term.
2. Enhance student's understanding of the historical context of violence and development in Latin America to improve student's understanding of how drugs, guns and gangs are linked to globalization.
3. Students will demonstrate the ability to produce reasoned critiques of social science literature by being able to identify the thesis of a work and formulate their own evaluations of it and defend their positions.
4. Identify the conditions under which law and legal institutions contribute to social change and conditions and they relate to public policy.
5. Students will demonstrate the ability a critical understanding of the range of legal tools and methods used in a variety of public policy settings, and the circumstances under which they sometimes fail or succeed.

REQUIRED MATERIALS
- DAWN PALEY, DRUG WAR CAPITALISM (2014).

CLASSROOM POLICY AND REGULATION

Classroom Decorum: No eating, drinking or smoking is permitted in the classroom during class. Any student who breaches this standard will be directed to refrain and remove offending substances from the classroom. Abidance by these standards is a condition of satisfactory completion of the course. Failure to conform may result in a lowered grade.

Classroom Conduct: Students are also expected to adhere to all federal, state and local laws. Naturally, you are all bound by the Regulations of the College of Charleston, including, but not limited to the College of Charleston Code of Conduct, the College of Charleston Honor Code and my classroom rules. But classroom behavior is more than just obeying rules; classroom behavior is also about showing proper professionalism. Proper conduct (i.e., professionalism) in the classroom is intended to encourage everyone to participate in, to derive benefit from, and ultimately to enjoy the class.

Class Attendance: Regular and punctual attendance is mandatory. I will take roll daily either by passing around a sign up sheet or by taking a roll call. A student is tardy if not seated in the assigned seat at the time attendance is taken. Each hour of class is treated separately for attendance purposes; therefore, missing a three-hour meeting is treated as three absences.

Electronics: Cell phones and other devices are prohibited. If a student allows his/her cell phone to audibly ring in class, the offending student may be sanctioned. Laptop computers are valuable educational tools. They are great for class-related note taking and reference; however, during class it is inappropriate to use laptops for any other purpose. Know that laptop use in class is a privilege and I will suspend or rescind it, individually or collectively, if it is abused.

Sanctions: Absences, tardiness and any other unprofessional conduct will be initially dealt with on a case-by-case basis as a matter of course grading, at the discretion of the Instructor. The imposition of disciplinary measures will follow the process provided by the College.

CLASSROOM ACCOMMODATION: ADA STATEMENT AND DISABILITY ACCESS

Disability claims and accommodation requests should be discussed with campus disabilities staff at Student Disability Services.

3 The College's Student Code of Conduct specifically forbids disruption or obstruction of teaching, research, administration, disciplinary proceedings other college activities, including its public-service functions on or off campus, or other authorized non-college activities when the act occurs on college premises. See Student Handbook at p.12. Further, the College's Honor Code specifically forbids lying, cheating, attempted cheating, stealing, attempted stealing and plagiarism. Students at the College are bound by honor and by their acceptance of admission to the College to abide by the code and to report violations. Id. Notably, faculty members have broad authority to manage the classroom environment. The college classroom isn't a public forum like a city street or park. Faculty members can define the course agenda, set and limit topics of discussion, give grades that reflect a student's knowledge or reasoning, and maintain order in the classroom. Faculty are encouraged to freely perform these important functions, provided that they refrain from unlawful discrimination, or seek to punish students solely for expressing unpopular viewpoints pertinent to the course.

4 Student Disability Services is located in the Lightsey Center, Room B31 and handles all student access inquiries. For further information about services for students with disabilities, please contact: Center for Disability Services, at 843.953.1431 (Voice), 843.953.8284 (TDD/TTY), 843.953.7731 (Fax) or via email at SNAP@cofc.edu.
Grading System
Course assignments will be graded on the following letter/numerical grading scale:

(A) = 94-100%; (A-) = 90-93%; (B+) = 87-89%; (B) = 84-86%; (B-) = 80-83%; (C+) = 77-79%;
(C) = 74-76%; (C-) = 70-73%; (D+) = 67-69%; (D) = 64-66%; (D-) = 60-63%; (F) = 0-59%.

The breakdown of your final grade is as follows:

Class Participation (20%): Active and informed participation is essential to the success of the course. Each student is expected to prepare in advance of each class meeting. Importantly, in this context preparation means that each student has read and reflected on the assigned course readings; students must be ready to answer the Instructor’s questions. Students may earn two (2) points, but not more than twenty (20) points per term, each time the student attends a public event, lecture, conference, seminar, or other event rationally related to course content.\(^5\)

Midterm Exam (30%): Each student must complete an in class midterm exam. The exam will be comprised of short answer discussion questions.

Research Project (50%): The breakdown of your research project grade is as follows:

Paper Prospectus and Bibliography (20 points): Each student will submit to the Instructor an abstract of their proposed final research paper. The abstract should be approximately one page and contain a clearly articulated research question (topics must be pre-approved by Instructor). Along with the abstract each student must additionally submit a preliminary annotated works cited section consisting of at least 15 references.

Student Research Presentations (20 points): Every student, individually, will present a report to the class. Each student will be expected to produce a presentation that contains at least 10 (ten) minutes of material related to the course themes and your research paper. During the week that the student is assigned to present, the Instructor will call on the student at the appropriate time (i.e., no assigned time slots) for their presentation. This is an informal presentation/discussion and should not last more than 10 (ten) minutes.

Final Research Paper (60 points): Each student will select a topic and complete a research paper on a topic of choice; however, it must relate to course themes. The Instructor must approve all research topics in advance. Your research paper will be graded based on the quality of your analysis, the depth and breadth of your research, and the style and organization of your paper. The paper must be at least 10 pages in length, but not more than 15 pages. All lengths are exclusive of title/caption page, table of contents, bibliography, endnotes, etc. Your research paper must be on 8-1/2” x 11” white paper. It must be plainly typed in black ink using a 12-point font on one side with 1” margins, not greater than double spaced and not less than one and one-half spaces between lines with the exception of quoted material, and properly paginated at the bottom of each page. Include a caption/title page with necessary identifying designations and a centered title. Your research should include relevant and substantively rich sources, preferably primary sources. You should use the appropriate sources and citation format for your discipline.

\(^5\) Each student must consult with the Instructor, in advance of attending an event to ensure it qualifies for course credit. To receive credit, the Student must submit a copy of the Student’s notes from the event, no later than one week after the event. Information about qualifying events on campus will be announced either via email or in class; students are strongly encouraged to independently seek out qualifying events.
